

Golf Day

A guided introduction to Golf Days

Sociable and safe, golf is perfect for business in the new normal. There is no better place to bring people together to make things happen. Whether motivating sales teams, rewarding business partners or closing deals - golf venues deliver everything you need.

One of the unique features of Inconnection Golf Days is the option to schedule your networking opportunities. All our days include multiple engagement touchpoints (including on course pairings and clubhouse seating plans) which we can organise and schedule in advance. So, as well as having a great day out, you can make sure the right people meet, network and talk business. If the event is co-funded it's the perfect way to deliver ROI.

The best golf days bring different businesses together. We can co-ordinate everything on your behalf, liaising with your business partners, suppliers, customers, and prospects to fill your golf day with the right people. We can even promote the event for you and sell teams to your nominated contacts. Contact us to find out how we can make your day a success.
